

CAPITAL AREA
IMMIGRANTS' RIGHTS
COALITION

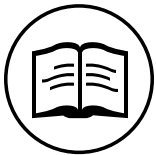

2018 IMPACT REPORT

Advancing Justice and Dignity for All Immigrants

OUR MISSION

The Capital Area Immigrants' Rights Coalition strives to ensure equal justice for all immigrant adults and children at risk of detention and deportation in the Capital region and beyond through direct legal representation, Know Your Rights presentations, impact litigation, advocacy, and the enlistment and training of attorneys to defend immigrants.

Detained Adult Program

The Detained Adult Program provides general information about immigration processes and legal services to noncitizens facing deportation while they are held inside a government detention center. We help people make informed decisions about their cases, provide support as they fight to stay in the United States, and stand with them as counsel during their hearings in front of immigration judges.

Detained Children's Program

The Detained Children's Program works with immigrant children who entered the United States without their parents and who are detained by the Office of Refugee Resettlement. We provide legal counsel, educational presentations, and social services to the children, including toddlers, pregnant teens and teen moms, and kids in long term foster care.

Immigration Impact Lab

The Immigration Impact Lab is CAIR Coalition's appellate and federal litigation project. Every day, we at CAIR Coalition witness the injustices that detained immigrants increasingly face in the American immigration detention and deportation system. Through impact cases in our Lab, we respond proactively to these injustices via appeals on issues that have the potential to improve the law for broad groups of immigrants.

CAIR Coalition Client Testimonials

Sylvia* is a grandmother of seven United States citizen grandchildren who has been living in the United States for over a decade. She was working 65 hours a week to support her family. When CAIR Coalition met her, Sylvia was four days away from being deported to El Salvador.

Her daughter was a government lawyer in El Salvador and had prosecuted gang members. When the gang members threatened to kill her last year she ran for her life to the United States.

Because of CAIR Coalition, Sylvia is now back with her family, and she has the legal representation she needs to ensure she has a fair opportunity to pursue her claim to stay in the United States for the rest of her life.

Sylvia's daughter wrote in a letter:

"I want to give thanks with all my heart for all the support that was given to us by the CAIR Coalition attorneys who were there at every moment supporting us. And with the help of all of you, my mother was able to leave detention. Thank you for representing us."

Alex*, originally from Belize, came to the United States when he was fourteen. He graduated from high school, became a green card holder, and later became the father to two U.S. citizen daughters. Today, he is married to a U.S. Navy Officer and is the primary father figure to her son, a U.S. Marine.

Alex was almost deported from the United States following a conviction for a non-violent drug offense, but a CAIR Coalition attorney was able to step in and help Alex keep his green card.

These presentations reached 254 non-detained immigrants, providing them with vital information of their rights in an encounter with Immigration and Customs Enforcement in their homes, workplaces, or in public.

The presentations also provided parents with information and resources on how to provide for care and custody of their children in the event of a parent's detention.

Advocacy & Coalition Building

CAIR Coalition continued to play a leadership role in multiple collaboratives such as the Children's Collaborative, the Crim-Imm Collaborative and the DMV Immigration Alliance.

CAIR Coalition supported the efforts of national immigration advocacy groups to oppose the increased funding for detention and removal.

CAIR Coalition founded the Promoting Legal Advocacy for Youth (PLAY) Coalition which brings together local and national organizations who work with detained immigrant youth.

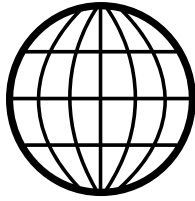

CAIR Coalition enabled access to necessary resources for private immigration bar members and non-profit organizations to facilitate better outcomes for their clients. This included regular liaison meetings with local USCIS officials and access to the CAIR Coalition Listserve.

Advocacy Success Story:

In 2018, the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR) announced their decision to cut the Legal Orientation Program (LOP). This Program, created in 2003, allows organizations such as CAIR Coalition to provide legal assistance to detained immigrants and help them navigate the complex immigration process. LOP serves more than 50,000 people per year nationally in 38 detention centers. In the DC, Maryland, and Virginia area, CAIR Coalition serves more than 4,000 people every year in six immigration detention centers with this funding.

In partnership with organizations around the country, CAIR Coalition advocated for this critical funding to be reinstated. Just two weeks later, then-Attorney General Jeff Sessions walked back the announcement and reinstated the Program.

Additional 2018 Highlights:

First full year working under Universal Representation Model

- The SAFE (Safety & Fairness for Everyone) Network is a group of 12 jurisdictions across the nation committed to employing an innovative model of public-private partnerships to address the pressing legal needs of our immigrant community members
- We provided representation in 20 cases for detained Prince George's County residents and 19 cases for detained Baltimore City residents with a 85-90% success rate
- The long-term goal of this model is to achieve full universal representation for detained, indigent immigrants across the nation

Expansion of in-house social services

- In August 2018 we hired our first social worker to assist with post-release plans for our most vulnerable clients
- 20 post-release plans were created for clients as well as two post deportation plans. These assist with needs such as housing and referrals for social services
- Worked with seven high needs non-detained clients on an ongoing basis for intensive post-release follow up to connect them with long term case management and mental health/other supportive community services
- Coordinated 14 independent psychological evaluations for clients' asylum cases
- Advocated with local community organizations and facilities regarding mental health resources and standards

Class-action lawsuits filed by the Immigration Impact Lab

The Immigration Impact Lab filed its first two class-action lawsuits in 2018 :

- Sanchez-Acosta v. Sessions (July 26, 2018): This class-action lawsuit challenges a new and fundamentally unfair policy that keeps immigrants detained after they win their cases, violating the basic tenets of due process.
- Palacios v. Sessions (January 17, 2018): This class-action challenges the practice of Immigration Judges in North Carolina unlawfully refusing to conduct bond hearings for detained immigrants.

CAIR Coalition's Supporters

Volunteers

"I am filled with gratitude to work with so many persons committed to equality, justice and love for others. I am not only filled with wondrous hope, but am inspired to live up to my highest callings."

- Jim Thessin, Volunteer Attorney

"This is the most profound volunteer experience I have had and I have been volunteering since I was 13 years old. We are in the belly of the beast fighting on the frontline. My being here answering the phones allows attorneys to be able to talk to their clients – it is a critical service. I volunteer with different organizations, but this is where I feel like I have the biggest impact on the immigrant justice movement."

- Denise Woods, Hotline Volunteer

In 2018, CAIR Coalition had over 300 active volunteers. Our volunteers provided critical assistance such as:

- Answering over 4,000 phone calls on our detention hotline. Our hotline is essential because often it is the only means by which detained immigrants can contact us, their attorneys, or other organizations that can help with their cases.
- Participating in jail visits. Volunteers help on almost every jail visit so that together we can provide services to many more detainees.
- Translating countless documents.
- Providing transportation to several released detainees.

For information on current volunteering opportunities or to become a volunteer go to: <https://www.caircoalition.org/how-to-help/volunteering>

Pro Bono Partners

"Over a decade ago, we successfully secured asylum through CAIR Coalition for a Rwandan man. We then secured asylum for his wife and four children. One of the children graduated from Penn State with an engineering degree and is now working for a major engineering firm in Harrisburg. Another is finishing nursing school. The third works at a major hotel in DC, and the fourth is pursuing a degree at a local community college. We are blessed to count this family among our closest friends."

- Pro Bono attorney with Beveridge & Diamond PC

"Working for our CAIR Coalition clients and with our CAIR Coalition mentors has been inspiring. As we prepare our clients' cases, we come to truly appreciate the hurdles facing immigrants who come to this country. We are proud to stand with CAIR Coalition and our immigrant clients in facing these challenges."

- Pro Bono attorney with Crowell & Moring LLP

"I am honored to be working with CAIR Coalition on an appeal to the Fourth Circuit for a domestic violence survivor whose asylum claims for herself and her child were denied as a result of then-Attorney General Session's decision in Matter of A-B-. CAIR Coalition has been a true partner in working to reverse A-B- and restore access to justice for women who have escaped brutal violence in their home countries, and seek only to live in peace and rebuild their lives in this country.

If justice prevails, it will be because of the devotion and hard work of CAIR Coalition's attorneys, staff, and volunteers."

- Pro Bono attorney with Mayer Brown LLP

We partner with more than 50 major law firms, corporate legal departments, and law school clinics in the Capital Region, who donated tens of thousands of hours of legal time or of legal services in 2018.

Donors

"The important work of the CAIR Coalition is, perhaps, more meaningful now than at any other time in its nearly 20 year existence. Amidst the obscurity of the current Administration's insensible immigration policies, the CAIR Coalition is a shining beacon of hope for immigrant families throughout the DMV that are directly feeling the impact of losing a loved one to deportation. Apart from its top-notch direct legal representation, the organization brings together like-minded legal advocates and supporters to collaborate in achieving its worthwhile mission. I am proud to be a supporter!"

- Himedes Chicas, CAIR Coalition Board Member

"I support CAIR Coalition because it is one of the few organizations in this region that provides critical legal services on behalf of detained immigrants who are facing deportation and cannot afford an attorney. CAIR Coalition's services allow immigrants, many of whom have close family ties in the United States, to have a better understanding of the legal proceedings they are facing and the legal protections that may be available to them. CAIR Coalition is also an invaluable partner and resource to hundreds of pro bono attorneys who provide services to indigent immigrants each year."

- Morgan Macdonald

Donating to CAIR Coalition is a great return on investment:

CAIR Coalition currently leverages over $10 million a year in donated legal services from more than 50 law firms and in-house legal departments in DC, MD, and VA. Thus, every dollar invested in CAIR Coalition leverages more than $6.00 in pro bono services to support critical efforts to ensure equal justice for immigrants at risk of detention and deportation.
